PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Global Investment Grade Credit Fund returned -1.01% (E, Accumulation shares) and -5.98% (E, Accumulation shares net of 5% preliminary charge) in February, outperforming the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Credit Index (USD Hedged) by 0.01%. Year-to-date the Fund has returned -1.01% (E, Accumulation shares) and -5.98% (E, Accumulation shares net of 5% preliminary charge), while the benchmark returned -1.14%.

The Bloomberg Global Aggregate Credit Index outperformed like-duration government bonds by 0.2% over the month, while spreads tightened by 5bps to 96bps.

Contributors

- An overweight to and security selection within banking and brokerage, as the sector and select overweight U.S. and European issuers outperformed
- Security selection within transportation, as select overweight airline issuers outperformed amid a strong set of earnings releases supported by increased demand for international air travel
- An overweight to and security selection within REITs, as the sector as well as select overweight issuers continued to outperform the broader market

Detractors

- Duration strategies, and in particular curve positioning within EUR and CAD duration, detracted from performance
- An underweight to emerging markets external debt, as the sector outperformed amid continued positive sentiment towards risk assets

MONTH IN REVIEW

Global investment grade credit spreads tightened by 5bps in February to 96bps. In the U.S., a particularly strong employment report alongside a firmer-than-expected inflation print led to a further rise in government bond yields as investors recalibrated their expectations for rate cuts. Contrastingly, growth indicators in the Eurozone and the U.K. continued to disappoint, with the U.K. slipping into a technical recession at the end of 2023. Against this backdrop, the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Credit Index outperformed like-duration government bonds by 0.2% in February, with a total return of -1.0% (USD hedged) over the month. On the primary market front, this was the busiest February on record, with $196bn of gross issuance in U.S. investment grade credit, driven in large part by a surge in M&A-related supply. From a sectorial performance standpoint, finance companies and brokerages, as well as REITS, outperformed during the month on an excess return basis, while communications and technology issuers lagged.

Developed market central banks remain patient in guiding towards potential easing. Public comments by FOMC members have in fact been more hawkish at the margin, emphasizing the need for further confidence that inflation is approaching its target before rate cuts can occur. In Europe, the ECB continued to emphasize a data-dependent approach while the BoE acknowledged balanced risks to inflation and accordingly held rates unchanged at its February meeting.

The ratings momentum appears to be slowing after a multi-year upgrade cycle. Following record downgrades in 2020, the market experienced a remarkable upgrade cycle over the past three years, with $278bn of rising stars versus only $48bn of fallen angels in USD debt in the 2021 to 2023 period. In 2024, we have thus far seen $4.3bn of rising stars versus $3.5bn of fallen angels, hinting at slowing ratings momentum going forward.

PORTFOLIO POSITIONING

We remain selective on generic corporate credit risk and focus on bottom-up credit selection, emphasizing resilient issuers with positive rating trajectories and attractive valuations.

We remain constructive on the gaming and airline sectors, as continued strength in leisure and business travel as well as strong consumer demand is feeding through to material earnings improvements and de-leveraging potential. In addition, we continue to prefer sectors with asset coverage and good earnings visibility, such as pipelines and wireless tower companies. Within financials, we favor the senior debt of large national champion banks, which are well positioned following more than a decade of restructuring, de-risking, and de-leveraging. We remain underweight to issuers with limited upside potential and heightened re-leveraging risk, including in sectors such as food & beverage and pharmaceuticals, and we similarly take a more cautious approach within sectors with asset-light business models or more shareholder-friendly balance sheet practices such as technology.

During the month, the Fund selectively added exposure to issuers in the pharmaceuticals sector, taking advantage of several attractively priced deals in the primary market, while also adding to issuers in the financials and gaming sectors. Conversely, the Fund trimmed its exposure to select issuers in the transportation services sector.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Resilient fundamentals

Investment grade credit fundamentals have remained resilient thus far as earnings as well as debt leverage metrics have remained relatively stable over recent quarters. Slowing consumer demand and margin pressures continue to represent headwinds for select industries and issuers, and tightening credit conditions remain a downside risk over the cyclical horizon. That said, given strong starting levels, credit fundamentals are generally expected to remain resilient even in a downturn.

Accordingly, the ratings momentum both in the crossover space and within the investment grade market remained meaningfully positive in 2023, marking the third year in a remarkable upgrade cycle. That said, ratings momentum has slowed this year and downgrades may increase going forward as growth slows.

Supportive technicals

Demand for global investment grade credit remains strong, especially driven by yield-focused buyers and institutional flows, as investors seek high-quality, income-producing assets while pension funds de-risk on the back of improved funding ratios. While gross issuance has had a strong start to the year, net supply is likely to decline this year due to higher maturities.

Additionally, the ECB is continuing to engage in balance sheet reduction, although the impact on the market has been limited to date.

Attractive all-in yields

All-in yields remain elevated compared to the last 15 years and yields around current levels have historically represented attractive entry points for long-term investors. In this environment, non-cyclicals, select consumer-oriented sectors, defensive BBBs, new issues, and potential rising stars continue to offer attractive opportunities, while ongoing macro volatility and recession risk may lead to downside scenarios in lower quality credits.

[Ⓢ]PIMCO calculates a Fund's Estimated Yield to Maturity by averaging the yield to maturity of each security held in the Fund on a market weighted basis. PIMCO sources each security's yield to maturity from PIMCO's Portfolio Analytics database. When not available in PIMCO's Portfolio Analytics database, PIMCO sources the security's yield to maturity from Bloomberg. When not available in either database, PIMCO will assign a yield to maturity for that security from a PIMCO matrix based on prior data. The source data used in such circumstances is a static metric and PIMCO makes no representation as to the accuracy of the data for the purposes of calculating the Estimated Yield to Maturity. The Estimated Yield to Maturity is provided for illustrative purposes only and should not be relied upon as a primary basis for an investment decision and should not be interpreted as a guarantee or prediction of future performance of the Fund or the likely returns of any investment.

[†]Annualised distribution yield = (Dividend Rate * 4) / NAV on ex-dividend day. Annualised Distribution Yield is as of 31/12/2023. Dividend is not guaranteed. A positive distribution yield does not imply a positive return.

Investment involves risk including possible loss of the principal amount invested. Past performance is not a guarantee or a reliable indicator of future results and no guarantee is being made that similar returns will be achieved in the future. The value of shares of the Fund and the income accruing to them, if any, may fall or rise. Investment returns denominated in non-local currency may be exposed to exchange rate fluctuations. In an environment where interest rates may trend upward, rising rates will negatively impact most bond funds, and fixed income securities held by a fund are likely to decrease in value. Bond funds and individual bonds with a longer duration (a measure of the expected life of a security) tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates, usually making them more volatile than securities with shorter durations. Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses carefully before investing. This and other information is contained in the Fund's Singapore Prospectus which is available and can be obtained from our website www.pimco.com.sg, a Fund distributor or the Singapore Representative. Prospective investors should read the Fund's Singapore Prospectus before deciding whether to subscribe for or purchase shares in any of the Funds. Investors may wish to seek advice from a financial adviser before making a commitment to invest and in the event you choose not to seek advice, you should consider whether the investment is suitable for you.

Investments made by a Fund and the results achieved by a Fund are not expected to be the same as those made by any other PIMCO-advised Fund, including those with a similar name, investment objective or policies. A new or smaller Fund's performance may not represent how the Fund is expected to or may perform in the long-term. New Funds have limited operating histories for investors to evaluate and new and smaller Funds may not attract sufficient assets to achieve investment and trading efficiencies. A Fund may be forced to sell a comparatively large portion of its portfolio to meet significant shareholder redemptions for cash, or hold a comparatively large portion of its portfolio in cash due to significant share purchases for cash, in each case when the Fund otherwise would not seek to do so, which may adversely affect performance.

A word about risk: Investing in the bond market is subject to risks, including market, interest rate, issuer, credit, inflation risk, and liquidity risk. The value of most bonds and bond strategies are impacted by changes in interest rates. Bonds and bond strategies with longer durations tend to be more sensitive and volatile than those with shorter durations; bond prices generally fall as interest rates rise, and low interest rate environments increase this risk. Reductions in bond counterparty capacity may contribute to decreased market liquidity and increased price volatility. Bond investments may be worth more or less than the original cost when redeemed. Investing in foreign denominated and/or domiciled securities may involve heightened risk due to currency fluctuations, and economic and political risks, which may be enhanced in emerging markets. Sovereign securities are generally backed by the issuing government, obligations of U.S. Government agencies and authorities are supported by varying degrees but are generally not backed by the full faith of the U.S. Government; portfolios that invest in such securities are not guaranteed and will fluctuate in value. Mortgage and asset-backed securities may be sensitive to changes in interest rates, subject to early repayment risk, and while generally supported by a government, government-agency or private guarantor there is no assurance that the guarantor will meet its obligations. High-yield, lower-rated, securities involve greater risk than higher-rated securities; portfolios that invest in them may be subject to greater levels of credit and liquidity risk than portfolios that do not. Derivatives may involve certain costs and risks such as liquidity, interest rate, market, credit, management and the risk that a position could not be closed when most advantageous. Investing in derivatives could lose more than the amount invested. Diversification does not ensure against loss.

Benchmark - Unless referenced in the prospectus, a benchmark or index in this material is not used in the active management of the Fund, in particular for performance comparison purposes.

Where referenced in the prospectus, a benchmark may be used as part of the active management of the Fund including, but not limited to, for duration measurement, as a benchmark which the Fund seeks to outperform, performance comparison purposes and/or relative VaR measurement.
